

TELL RISHI:

SLAVERY SURVIVORS DESERVE SUPPORT

In the UK, survivors of modern slavery, encompassing victims of organ harvesting, domestic servitude, labor, criminal exploitation, or sexual exploitation, do not receive guaranteed support in the days following the reporting of abuse. Survivors who get help are eligible for basics, such as safe housing or counselling, for only a minimum of 30 days. After years of waiting for promises of longer and earlier support to become a reality, Rishi Sunak scrapped these pledges. We must act.
